

Video Solutions

GTH offers a number of video solutions for Commercial and Industrial applications. In addition to hardware, GTH is also capable of integrating video technology into existing Building Automation or SCADA software systems. Contact the branch near you today for more information on how this exciting technology can benefit your facility!

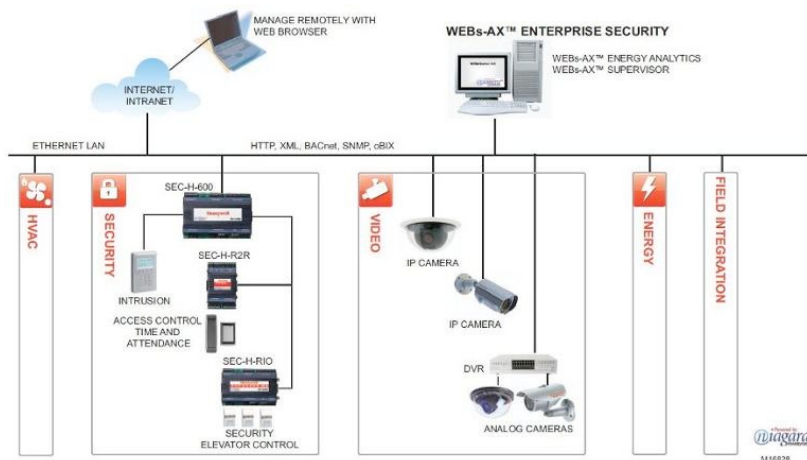

Pelco Security Cameras & Surveillance Systems

Pelco by Schneider Electric offers the industry's best security cameras and video surveillance systems including fixed and dome analog cameras, IP Cameras, Digital Video Recorders (DVR), video management solutions, and specialty thermal Imaging camera systems designed for low-light, indoor and outdoor video surveillance operations.

Honeywell WEBs-AX Security

Flexibility is the key to Honeywell WEBs-AX Security. Whether you need single site or enterprise access control, intrusion detection, video surveillance or a combination, WEBs-AX Security lets you choose exactly what's needed for the installation. Best of all, WEBs-AX Security can work as a standalone system or integrate easily with other WEBs-AX products as well as third-party devices for information sharing on the enterprise level.

Pelco & Citect Integration - Simple & Smart Security in SCADA

The ability to seamlessly interface with Pelco cameras is a standard feature of CitectSCADA, making our security solution simpler, smarter and more secure. It provides operators with:

- Greater flexibility and control over the security and management of company assets
- Rapid detection of potential security events
- Integrated tools to help supervise people and equipment
- Central viewing of remote events, helping personnel to make more informed decisions

The Water and Wastewater and Oil and Gas Industries particularly benefit from integrated security monitoring functions such as CitectSCADA's video surveillance capabilities.

Contact the GTH location near you for more information or an on-site demonstration of this integrated solution! Contact the branch near you for more information on our products & services.